Synthetic Prudential Access Control Standard — 2026.1

Fictional regulatory amendment for software testing only

Issuing authority

Synthetic Prudential Regulatory Authority (SPRA). This is a fictional authority created solely for this synthetic project; it is not a real regulator.

Document metadata

Regulation identity: SPACS. Version label: 2026.1. Publication date: 15 May 2026. Effective from: 1 July 2026. Effective to: not specified. Status: active amendment.

Purpose

This fictional amendment updates the access governance standard to strengthen review frequency, record retention, and exception reporting.

Section 4 — Quarterly Access Review

Banks shall review privileged user access at least quarterly. Each review shall identify inappropriate access, document management approval, and retain evidence of completion.

Section 5 — Retention

Privileged access review records shall be retained for at least 7 years from the date of the review.

Section 6 — Quarterly Exception Reporting

Material exceptions identified during privileged access reviews shall be aggregated and reported quarterly to the bank risk committee. The report shall identify the exception, owner, remediation status, and target completion date.

Applicability

The updated requirements apply to banks operating privileged access systems and to material outsourced technology providers supporting such systems.

Version relationship

This version explicitly supersedes Synthetic Prudential Access Control Standard 2025.1 (same regulation identity SPACS) from 1 July 2026.